

Justin Sabrsula

SVP, Fundamentals and New Markets

---

Justin Sabrsula is Vice President of Fundamentals and New Markets for Pattern Energy. He provides independent analysis and advice on the key fundamental drivers impacting Pattern Energy's markets and identifies growth opportunities. He is also responsible for corporate strategy planning.

Prior to joining Pattern Energy, Justin served as Head of Strategy for GE Renewable Energy's Onshore Wind division where he led global business and product strategy for equipment and services. He has also held a variety of strategy, product management and marketing leadership roles across GE's wind, energy storage and solar divisions. He values creating opportunities and driving strategy using rigorous research and analysis, to help elevate company performance.

Justin holds a bachelor's degree in Public Policy from Duke University and two master's degrees, in Urban Planning and Business Administration, from The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.